REPORT: Ryan Day Receives 5-Year Contract At Ohio State

On Jan. 2, 2019, Ryan Day will take over as Ohio State's head football coach.

Day, currently in his second season as the Buckeyes' offensive coordinator, has agreed to a five-year contract with Ohio State, according to a report by Bruce Feldman of Fox Sports.

> SOURCE: New #OhioState head coach Ryan Day has agreed to a five-year contract with the Buckeyes.
>
> — Bruce Feldman (@BruceFeldmanCFB) December 4, 2018

Day is set to take over for Urban Meyer, who is set to retire after coaching in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

More On The Story

- Urban Meyer Announces Retirement Plans As Ryan Day Becomes Next Head Coach
- Day Expects To Retain 4 Key Ohio State Staffers
- Top 5 Moments Of Urban Meyer's Ohio State Career