

Chris Holtmann ‘Incredibly Proud’ Of Buckeyes Despite 2nd-Round Loss

TULSA, Okla. — Ohio State had shown the propensity to stage a rally, whether it was coming back from 23 down in the second half vs. Wisconsin to go to overtime before losing in the regular-season finale, or a 16-0 run that fell just short of beating Michigan State in the Big Ten tournament.

So, a 39-31 halftime deficit to Houston in the second round of the NCAA Tournament Midwest Regional in Tulsa, Okla., on Sunday didn't seem daunting.

When the Buckeyes pulled to within five things were looking up, but the Cougars were too strong, too quick and too experienced for the Buckeyes and ended OSU's season with a 74-59 victory.

"We were a couple of stops away from tying it up, a couple of miscues on my part," senior guard C.J. Jackson said. "We were right there. I'm definitely proud of that part."

He led the Buckeyes (20-15) with 18 points before a crowd of a crowd of 12,606 at BOK Center. In his final game, he bounced back after having two points in the 62-59 first round win over Iowa State on Friday.

"Coach just harped on me be confident, take open shots, take good shots and that's what I did," he said. "My teammates really uplifted me after the last game, just telling me be confident and be who I have been all year. Credit to them and credit to the great coaching staff for instilling confidence in me when I needed it most."

Sophomore Kaleb Wesson added 15 points. The center attempted seven shots, six of them were three-pointers, making two. He had three shots in the second half.

"They work hard on their defense and it shows," Wesson said.

Senior Keyshawn Woods chipped in with 10 points.

Even though the Buckeyes were the 11-seed and the Cougars (33-3) a three-seed, the loss was tough to take.

"It stings," OSU coach Chris Holtmann said. "I'm really proud of this group. I'm incredibly proud of this team as much as any team I've coached."

The Buckeyes went through the ups of a 12-1 start when a young team wasn't expected to make a repeat trip to the NAAs, to losing five games in a row - the Buckeyes' longest skid in 21 years - to losing three games with Wesson suspended to end the regular season. It took a win over Indiana in the Big Ten tournament to earn an NCAA bid.

"I've really enjoyed coaching them," Holtmann said. "We've had our rough days but to be one of the final 32 teams standing and I thought we competed really well. We just couldn't quite get it in the second half to where it was within five, we just couldn't quite get to where we needed to."

The Cougars increased its halftime lead to 49-39 before Jackson scored five straight to draw within 49-44 with 11:44 remaining. OSU hung around and trailed 52-47 before a pair of buckets by Houston made it 56-47 with 8:24 to go and the Cougars methodically pulled away from there and were up 64-53 for the under-4 timeout with 3:42 to play.

"They're a fast team. They got into transition a lot. They got to their spots," sophomore Musa Jallow said. "Nothing really surprised us. We knew how athletic they were, how they kept up on us defensively."

OSU went 8:17 without a field - all nine points during the stretch were from the line - until Wesson scored with 3:27 left to make it 64-55. He was fouled on the play but missed the free throw.

Even then, the Buckeyes remained confident.

"It was their night. Just say, that. It was their night," freshman Luther Mohammad said. "No matter what, we're always going to be confident coming back, playing our hardest until the clock hits zero."

Holtmann said the Cougars made it difficult to get back into the game.

"We had trouble guarding the ball," he said. "Their senior (Galen Robinson) made some really important plays when they needed it and we felt like we were getting it right there where it was a one-possession game and they would come up with a loose ball or rebound, whatever the case may be.

"They're a really good team. Credit to Houston but I'm super, super, incredibly proud of this group."

Houston's defense did a god job keeping Wesson away from the bucket and their rotation of big men helped give the Cougars a 34-12 advantage in the paint.

"Miscommunication in our defense at times, including myself," Woods said. "They just exploited our defense. They got more inside buckets than we did."

He and Houston's DeJon Jarreau were issued a technical for a dust-up at the halftime buzzer that had both teams gathering on the floor.

"Heated battles, heated game," Woods said. "Words were exchanged and me and him got a tech."

Houston freshman guard Nate Hinton applauded the Buckeyes' effort.

"They played one heck of a game and it showed," he said. "They played great and they competed, they got here and every team is good in the NCAA tournament. We just have to give our hats off to a great program and their coach is doing a great job."

Wesson said that's the way the Buckeyes have played,

"I feel like just this year we really showed a lot of people how much heart we had and we really came back and really showed people who we really," he said.

Holtmann singled out the three seniors - Jackson, Woods and Joey Lane - for their leadership in getting the Buckeyes into the NCAA Tournament.

"You have three tremendous people who have all been here in varying fashions," he said. "C.J. three years, Joey Lane four years and Keyshawn Woods a year, and they have left a major imprint on this program. You hate it for those three. It's extremely disappointing for those three, but also, it's been a tremendous group to coach.

"I don't know that I've ever been a part of a team where we faced as many challenges and had a group come through on the other end in such a positive way. It just really speaks to the quality of our players and the quality of people they are. And obviously as a coach you would love for them to experience what the second weekend is like, you'd love that for your seniors, but I couldn't be more proud of this group."

[divider line_type="Full Width Line" line_thickness="2" divider_color="default"]
[nectar_btn size="jumbo" button_style="regular" button_color_2="Accent-Color" icon_family="none" url="http://www.buckeyesports.com/boards/" text="Join The Conversation"]