

Charting The Offers: New Targets Surface In Ohio State's 2020 Recruiting Class

With the 2019 recruiting class in the books after Ohio State inked 17 letters of intent and closed the cycle Feb. 6 on National Signing Day, the Buckeyes go full steam ahead on the next two years.

While the Buckeyes are reportedly involved with graduate transfers in the trenches, including Rutgers center/offensive guard Jonah Jackson and Virginia offensive guard R.J. Proctor, they shift the bulk of their focus to the 2020 and 2021 groups.

OSU boasts seven commitments in 2020 and one pledge for 2021, which gives head coach Ryan Day and the rest of the staff a solid start as evaluations and visits unfold.

Part of Ohio State's 2020 build, in particular, has led to its recent offer activity with nine reported in the past eight days and one for 2021. BSB takes a look at each and recaps the latest flurry of prospects.

Deontae Craig

Culver (Ind.) Academies three-star defensive end Deontae Craig added an offer Feb. 12 from the Buckeyes and reached double-digit scholarships six days later with Notre Dame. The 6-4, 230-pounder visited Indiana two days prior to OSU's offer.

Before the Feb. 10 trip to see the home-state Hoosiers, he last checked out Ohio State for its Nov. 24 game against Michigan at Ohio Stadium. Among other visits, Craig saw Notre Dame (Sept. 1) and Michigan (Oct. 13) during his junior season.

He also plays basketball for Culver Academies, averaging 12.9 points and 7.7 rebounds in 19 games, while competing additionally on the UA Grind 2020 Indiana grassroots team. Craig is the 247Sports composite's No. 510 overall prospect, No. 23 strong-side defensive end and No. 3 player in Indiana for 2020.
