

Full Ohio State Men's Basketball Schedule Announced

The entirety of the 2023-24 Ohio State men's basketball schedule has been solidified, with game times and TV designations announced for all 31 games this season.

The Buckeyes, who begin the regular season on Nov. 6 against Oakland at 7 p.m. on BTN+, will be featured on television 10 times this year, with three games airing on FOX, three games airing on FS1 and four games being broadcast on CBS. Ohio State's national TV schedule is headlined by its Dec. 16 matchup against UCLA in the CBS Sports Classic in Atlanta, which will air at 3 p.m. on CBS, along with its home finale against Michigan on March 3, which will tip off at 4 p.m. on CBS.

Ohio State will also have eight games this season available exclusively through streaming services. The Buckeyes will play five games on Peacock — an NBC streaming platform — including its Nov. 10 matchup with preseason Top 25 team Texas A&M, which is set to tip off at 7 p.m. They will also have three games broadcast on BTN+, including the aforementioned season-opener against Oakland on Nov. 6 along with games against Miami (Ohio) and New Orleans on Dec. 6 and Dec. 21, respectively.

Ohio State, who started practice last week, will also face off against Dayton on Oct. 22 in a charity exhibition game at UD Arena. The game will not be broadcast on TV or a streaming service, but it is slated to tip off at 6 p.m.
