

Ohio State Five-Star RB Commit TreVeyon Henderson Headed To All-American Bowl

Ohio State halfback commit TreVeyon Henderson announced that he has accepted an invitation to play at the All-American Bowl, to be played on Jan. 9.

blessings.. @AABonNBC @ErikRichardsUSA @rlacey23 pic.twitter.com/ne6EbO4qlf

— TreVeyon Henderson (@TreveyonH15) May 10, 2020

The move doesn't come as much of a surprise, as Henderson will be one of quite a few future Buckeyes to make the trip to San Antonio, including his fellow halfback commit Evan Pryor. Pryor teased the partnership prior to Henderson's announcement.

Buckeye nation. You'll be able to see the duo a little early ... @TreveyonH15

— Evan Pryor (@evanpryor3) May 9, 2020

The two halfbacks will likely land on the East team.

Pryor, linebacker Reid Carrico, offensive lineman Donovan Jackson and quarterback Kyle McCord have all already committed to the showcase, while cornerback commit Jakailin Johnson picked up an invitation earlier in the week.

Blessed to be invited to the Adidas All-American Bowl Game thanks @AABonNBC @rlacey23

pic.twitter.com/v5RzMoYPgv

— Jakailin “JK” Johnson (@jakailin6) May 8, 2020

Henderson is the second-highest ranked recruit in Ohio State’s 2021 class, checking in only behind defensive end Jack Sawyer. Henderson is considered the No. 18 prospect in the 247Sports composite rankings, the No. 1 running back, and the No. 3 player from Virginia. He committed to Ohio State on March 27, over in-state stalwart Virginia Tech.