

Ohio State Pro Day: Live Updates

On the first day of spring, Ohio State football takes center stage Wednesday in Columbus with pro day from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Woody Hayes Athletic Center.

Fourteen former Buckeyes become available for the NFL draft April 25-27 in Nashville, Tenn., with nearly all OSU products expected to workout for pro day.

On top of the 10 players who competed Feb. 26-March 4 during the NFL scouting combine at Lucas Oil Stadium in Indianapolis, four others are slated to perform for pro day — offensive linemen Demetrius Knox and Malcolm Pridgeon, linebacker Dante Booker and kicker Sean Nuernberger.

Quarterback Dwayne Haskins; running back Mike Weber; wide receivers Parris Campbell, Johnnie Dixon and Terry McLaurin; offensive linemen Michael Jordan and Isaiah Prince; and defensive lineman Dre'Mont Jones are competing again after performing at the combine.

Defensive lineman Nick Bosa is reportedly standing on his combine efforts, while cornerback Kendall Sheffield showed up in street clothes. Bosa recovered from core muscle surgery six months ago and showed his return to full health at the combine, and Sheffield suffered an injury to his pectoral muscle at the combine on the 225-pound bench press.
