Jincy Dunne, a fifth-year senior defender for the Ohio State women's ice hockey team, and Emma Maltais, a junior forward earned First Team All-WCHA honors.

The dynamic duo of Dunne and Maltais gives the Buckeyes two of the first-team winners, with Wisconsin also boasting two while Minnesota Duluth and Minnesota each have one player represented.

Dunne is a three-time first team All-WCHA performer who finished third in regular-season scoring among defenders with 25 points on seven goals and 18 assists. The O'Fallon, Mo., native tallied 19 of her points (six goals and 13 assists) in conference action, ranking second among WCHA blueliners.

"She's just such a phenomenal hockey player," Ohio State head coach Nadine Muzerall said of Dunne. "I don't know what else the U.S. hockey team is looking for, but she's got all the elements to be such an elite player and Olympian."

Dunne began her Scarlet and Gray career as a Third Team All-WCHA honoree, who was also named to the conference's All-Rookie Team.

After being named Preseason All-WCHA, Dunne delivered with an excellent season for the 24-8-6 Buckeyes. Dunne, who was an alternate captain as a redshirt freshman and sophomore, led the team to the first WCHA title in school history in her second year as co-captain.

During the first intermission of the WCHA Final Faceoff, Dunne was interviewed and asked what it would mean to win the coveted conference crown for the Ohio State women's ice hockey program.

"It would be a huge honor," Dunne said during the first intermission of a 1-0 overtime win in the WCHA Final Faceoff against Wisconsin. "We talk about the people, the excellence — Ohio State's never done anything like this before. We have such a special group in that locker room. And with the group we've got, it's the most deserving team I've been on that should win this Final Faceoff, so it would mean everything to us right now."

Ohio State prevailed in the Final Faceoff, winning the first conference championship in program history by defeating Wisconsin 1-0 in overtime on March 8.

Prior to her record-breaking season, Maltias was named the Preseason WCHA Player of the Year. She excelled as a junior, winning WCHA Forward of the Week three times and being recognized nationally as a NCAA Second Star of the Week.

Beyond Dunne and Maltias, a pair of sophomores won Third Team All-WCHA accolades with goaltender Andrea Braendli and defender Sophie Jaques being honored.

Braendli earned her first All-WCHA honor in a season where she was named a two-time WCHA Goaltender of the Week as well as the NCAA Second Star of the Week. The Zurich, Switzerland, native recorded the third-best save percentage in the league at .921 while posting a 2.00 goals against average across 27 starts in the net.
